c. 1957 – Present”
Premieres Sunday, October 19, 2025

CLEVELAND, OH -- Throughout the 20th century and beyond, Black nurses and physicians in Greater Cleveland have played a vital role in advancing healthcare both locally and globally. They established hospitals, launched community clinics, and championed professional development and leadership within the medical field.

The significance of their work is recorded in the histories of organizations such as the Cleveland Council of Black Nurses, Forest City Hospital, City Hospital/MetroHealth, the Glenville Health Association, Doctor’s Pharmacy, the Glenville Medical Center, and the Medical Associates Building. These entities exemplify a broader movement to improve medical education and healthcare access across the United States.

These stories will unfold in the new exhibit “Race, Place, and Community-Based Healthcare in Cleveland, Ohio c. 1957 – Present”, sponsored by the Cleveland Council of Black Nurses. The exhibit opens to the public Sunday, October 19, 2025 in the African American History Gallery at the WRHS Cleveland History Center and runs through September 27, 2026.

Tickets to “Race, Place, and Community-Based Healthcare in Cleveland, Ohio c. 1957 – Present” are included with general museum admission to the Cleveland History Center in University Circle. About America 250-Ohio

In 2026, the United States will celebrate its semiquincentennial, which is the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Each state has been encouraged to create a celebration and commemoration of this anniversary to reflect the unique character and contributions of each state to the nation over the past 250 years. Ohio is fully embracing this opportunity. The Ohio Commission for the Semiquincentennial (aka America 250-Ohio Commission or AM250-OH) was created by the Ohio legislature and launched on March 1, 2022. The charge of the AM250-OH Commission is to "...to plan, encourage, develop, and coordinate the commemoration of the two hundred fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the United States and the impact of Ohioans on the nation's past, present, and future." — Ohio Revised Code (149.309).
